

By This We Know Love

---

Michael J. Nielsen

Easter / Love; Jesus Loves Me; Selfishness; The Good Shepherd / Acts 4:1-12; Psalm 23; 1 John 3:16-24; John 10:11-18

---

- › Grace, mercy, and peace be yours from God our Father and from our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, our Resurrected King. Amen.

Alleluia! Christ is Risen! He is Risen Indeed! Alleluia!

“By this we know love!” These words should grab your attention. Love. Isn't this what we all want? Isn't it what we all need? If our text for today has the formula for love, we wanna hear it!

So what does it say? From God's Word to us through the Apostle John, What do we know about love?

Believe it or not, in one way or another, everybody loves. Even the worst people in history loved. But here's the thing; on our own, most of the time the object of our love is self. When we love something, it's generally because it brings us pleasure. When we hate someone or something, it's generally because it is a threat to us. But is love of self really love at all?

The apostle John writes in verses just before our text:

English Standard Version Chapter 3

11 For this is the message that you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another. 12 We should not be like Cain, who was of the evil one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his own deeds were evil and his brother's righteous.

Cain loved, but the object from God, and out of jealousy and love of self, Cain slew his brother. His love of self showed itself as hate toward Abel. The message that we heard from the beginning is that we should love one another...but we don't.

Another example of failed human love is in Jesus' description of the religious leaders of his day. Their true love was not directed to those God had given them to care for, but rather their love was directed toward themselves. Jesus taught

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

12 He who is a hired hand and not a shepherd, who does not own the sheep, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and flees, and the wolf snatches them and scatters them. 13 He flees because he is a hired hand and cares nothing for the sheep.

Remember,

English Standard Version Chapter 3

11 For this is the message that you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another.

But we don't.

The law proves over and over again that we more like Cain and the hired hands than we would like to admit.

If you look at yourself honestly, you see that you love yourself more than anything or anyone else. This has been the case since sin entered the world, but over the last year and more, our true colors have come out, we love ourselves first. We want what we think is best. We don't think about our neighbors very well. It's who we are - selfish human beings. And if we are honest, what did love of self do for Cain and the false teachers? It led Cain to a fear of God that saw no hope, and it led to his lonely exile and rejection from others. Where did it lead the religious leaders of whom Jesus spoke? It led them to fear enemies and to actions for the sake of self-preservation. Their love of self also led to the fear of God, without hope, and to self-imposed exile. Love of self really does not good for anyone, not even for us. We need something other than the love of self.

The message of Easter reveals a different kind of love. It is a love that has "the other" as the object of its affection. It is a love that lays down one's life for the sake of the other. It is a love that is confident and unafraid because it lacks nothing. It is not motivated by fear of loss, but rather it recognizes that it has received everything, and so it freely gives.

Contrasting self-love with the love that we learn from God, John writes,

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

16 By this we know love, that he laid down his life for us, and we ought to lay down our lives for the brothers.

This is really something, if you think about it. People tell us that we have to earn their respect. We understand that we have to earn a paycheck. When people tell us they love us, it's often followed by "Because" and the word is usually accompanied by something we did. For example, "I love you because you are always there for me." Or, "I love you because you are such a good friend." This is not wrong, and when we hear words like that, we feel good that we brought something good to someone else's life.

But John is not talking about a love that we have earned. Did we deserve to have God lay down his life for us? NO! The love that God has made known is far different from any other love.

English Standard Version Chapter 5

God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

6 For while we were still weak, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly.

English Standard Version Chapter 5

God shows his love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

English Standard Version Chapter 5

while we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much

This is love, dear Saints!

And Jesus gives willingly! He says:

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep.

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me,

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

I lay down my life for the sheep

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again.

Jesus laid down his life and took it up again for us. This is the message of Easter: “By this we know love.”

We receive and know this love every time we gather around our Good Shepherd in the Word and Sacrament. Jesus says, “Take, eat, this is my body, which is given for you...Drink; this is my blood which is shed for you.” Here Jesus gives you his love; here is where you receive it. His love which was first “poured out on us richly” in our Baptism, continues to be received by us in His Supper when we eat and drink. Moreover, in the absolution, He unflinchingly reveals to us that his love has covered even the sins that bring us guilt and shame. And by his same love, that guilt and shame is removed. All of this is made possible because he laid down his life for the sheep and took it up again. Lent and Easter get at the heart of how we know love.

John lets us know that this love cannot be contained by those who receive it. If a person receives Jesus’ love, he must love others. David put it this way in our Psalm:

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

5 You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies;
you anoint my head with oil;
my cup overflows.

We can say, “You prepare for me a table at Your Supper, and You have anointed my head with the water of Baptism, and your love for me cannot help but overflow.”

This does not mean that you are and I are sinless. I want you to know that! And no one should look to his own actions to assure himself that he’s going to heaven. But, if I notice that I’m not letting God’s love have its way with me, meaning that my love for others has failed, then I return to God’s love in Christ. For that is where I know love and that is where I find the source of my love for others. It is because Jesus laid down his life for me that I have the ability to lay down my life for others.

In verse 23 of our text, John wrote:

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

And this is his commandment, that we believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ and love one another, just as he has commanded us.

As Lutherans, we have always understood that obedience to God’s commandments begins with the Father’s love for us in Jesus. Jesus united us to Himself in Baptism and thereby connected us with the greatest act of love the universe has ever known: Jesus’ death and resurrection for the forgiveness of sin. Moreover, Jesus continues to grant us the same love in His Supper. And upon receiving the Supper, we often pray, “We give thanks to You, almighty God, that you have refreshed us through this salutary gift, and we implore You that of Your mercy You would strengthen us through the same in faith toward You and in fervent love toward one another.”

You see we understand that “we should love one another,” and in the prayer after the Lord’s Supper, we recognize that the source of our love for others and faith toward God begins with knowing Jesus’ love for us.

Lutheran Service Book Three Year Lectionary 4-25-2021: Fourth Sunday of Easter

16 By this we know love, that he laid down his life for us,

In the name of Jesus! Alleluia! Christ is Risen! He is Risen Indeed! Alleluia! Amen

- › Now may the peace of God which passes all human understanding, guard your hearts and minds and keep them focused in Christ Jesus our Lord and Savior. Amen.